

CPYRGHT

ROBERT F. BYRNES

Robert F. Byrnes was born in Waterville, New York, in 1918. He was educated at Amherst College (B.A., 1939) and Harvard University (M.A., 1940; Ph.D., 1947). In 1943-44, he was an Economic Analyst with the Foreign Economic Administration and from December 1944 until September 1945, he was with the Military Intelligence Service. After the war, he served as an Instructor in History at Swarthmore College; a Visiting Lecturer in Russian History, also at Swarthmore; an Assistant Professor of History at Rutgers University; and an Associate Professor of History, also at Rutgers, from which position he is now on leave of absence. He is the author of numerous learned papers, articles and books, including volume I: "The Prologue to the Dreyfus Affair" in the collection Antisemitism in Modern France, and the chapter on "The Christian Democrats in Modern France" in the symposium Modern France: Problems of the Third and Fourth Republics, edited by Edward Earle. He has also been the recipient of numerous distinctions and fellowships, including a Social Science Research Council Grant-in-Aid, an American Philosophical Society Grant, and a John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Fellowship. At present, he is a member of the staff of the Office of National Estimates.